

The mission of Annie's Project is to empower women to be better business partners through networks and by managing and organizing critical information.

Annie's Project is based on the life of a farm woman who grew up in a small town in northern Illinois. Her goal was to marry a farmer and she did. Annie spent her lifetime learning how to be an involved business partner with her farm husband. Together they did great things, but it wasn't easy.

Through it all, Annie kept records. She kept the farm business running, she kept the family running, and she kept her marriage. Annie knew deadlines, reporting requirements, and tax issues. She did the little management jobs that supported big management decisions.

When big decisions had to be made, Annie was there with her records. To increase cash flow, Annie sent her husband to work off farm while she milked cows and kept an egg route in Chicago. Eventually, her records guided them to discontinue an egg laying enterprise, a seasonal turkey enterprise, and a dairy enterprise.

Other farmers with larger equipment and more resources could better run the farm. So Annie and her husband became the landowners renting to other farmers. She paid expenses, and marketed corn and soybeans.

Annie was married to a farmer for 50 years. She died in 1997, a wealthy woman, and doing things her way.

Annie's daughter, Ruth, married a man from a farm and the story started all over with one exception: while Annie would never dream of working off-farm, Ruth worked for University of Illinois Extension and established the non-profit "Annie's Project".
