Peppers

Is a pepper a fruit or a vegetable? According to the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA), peppers are both. A botanist would classify a pepper as a fruit due to its structure and seed-bearing properties. A nutritionist or chef would classify a pepper as a vegetable due to its tougher texture and taste. Whichever way you prefer peppers, they count towards the 2020 Dietary Guidelines for Americans, which recommend 2 ½ cups of vegetables per day.

Each type of pepper has its own distinctive flavor and spice level. Some peppers are sweet, while others have you rushing to the sink to cool off your burning mouth.

By the way, drinking water isn't the best way to cool the oil-based alkaline capsaicin (kap-say-ih-sin), which causes the burn in our mouth. Instead, reach for acidic food and drinks such as lemonade, orange juice, anything tomato-based, or even a glass of milk, which is also acidic.

AVAILABILITY

Peppers are found in local supermarkets year-round. They are most abundant in Wyoming farmers' markets and home gardens from July–September.

According to University of Wyoming Extension educator Brian Sebade in a Barnyards and Backyards magazine article, peppers can be grown in Wyoming, but may be tricky in cooler parts of Wyoming. Ideal growing temperatures are between 70–90 degrees during the day and 60–70 degrees at night.

SELECTION

Peppers come in a wide variety of shapes, sizes, and colors. Varieties are split into sweet and hot categories. Hot peppers can vary drastically in heat and their degree of “hotness.” Peppers range from a Scoville Heat Unit of 0 (i.e., a bell pepper) to about 2.2 million Scoville Heat Units (i.e., a Carolina Reaper). It's important to choose the right pepper for your needs and your taste buds.

Choose firm, crisp peppers that are heavy for their size, with bright, shiny skins.

Avoid peppers with bruised, blistered, cracked, wrinkled, or soft skin, as these may be overripe or damaged.

STORAGE

Most produce should not be washed before storage. However, fruits and vegetables need to be washed before peeling or eating them. Pathogens that cause foodborne illness may be present on produce. Use cool running water to wash the produce. Once cut or peeled, they must be treated like prepared food and refrigerated within two hours.

Peppers are sensitive to ethylene gas and should be stored away from produce that gives off such gases. Apples, bananas, melons, pears, and peaches are common ethylene-producing fruits, while tomatoes are moderate ethylene producers.

Store peppers in a cool, dark place to prevent mold and other decay. If you store them in the refrigerator, use them soon after removal. Fresh peppers do not have a long storage life, only one to two weeks. Home-grown peppers will last longer than those purchased from the store.

PEPPER HEAT

The seeds and membranes of hot peppers contain much of their heat. To reduce spiciness, remove these parts before cooking. The seeds also carry flavor, so adjust quantities accordingly. Embrace the heat while considering the overall flavor profile of the dish. Start with small amounts and gradually adjust to achieve the desired level of spiciness.

Use these techniques to reduce pepper heat.

Blend with mild ingredients: To mellow the heat of peppers, blend them with mild ingredients. With their mild flavor, carrots, celery, onions, or potatoes work in a variety of hot pepper dishes. The fat in cheese also helps to offset the spice from hot peppers. Grate the cheese and let it melt on top, or stir it in.

Roast or grill: Roasting or grilling peppers caramelizes their natural sugars and tempers their spiciness. Once charred, you can peel off the skin for a smoother texture and subtly smoky flavor.

Soak in dairy: Dairy products like milk, yogurt, or sour cream contain casein, a protein that helps neutralize capsaicin, the compound responsible for heat. Soak sliced peppers in dairy before using them in dishes.

Balance with sweetness: Counterbalance pepper heat with sweetness. A touch of honey, agave nectar, or brown sugar can soften the fiery punch while adding depth to the dish.

Acidity for balance: Acidic ingredients like vinegar, citrus juice, or tomatoes help balance the heat by cutting through the spiciness. Use them in sauces, marinades, or dressings.

Serve with starch: Serve your spicy dish alongside rice, pasta, or bread to help cut down on the hot pepper flavor.

PREPARATION

Wash all peppers just before using them. Rub the skin gently under cool running water. Using a scrub brush may scrape away the delicate skin. Once clean, use a clean towel or paper towel to dry the peppers.

Although it is safe to eat the seeds of the pepper, removing the seeds and the pale membrane also known as pith will lessen the heat of the pepper. You should wear gloves or use a tool manufactured to remove the pith so as not to burn your hands or eyes. Wash hands thoroughly after handling peppers.

Cut your peppers as directed for the recipe.

COOKING

Peppers are a versatile food that can be eaten both raw and cooked. Each method gives the peppers a slightly different taste and texture. Peppers are easy to add to many dishes and there are endless recipes to try.

The following equivalent measurements will help you convert pepper weight in pounds on a scale to the amount in cups needed for a recipe.

- Bell peppers: One medium sweet pepper equals $\frac{1}{2}$ cup chopped. 1 pound equals 3–4 cups chopped. An average of 9 pounds equals 9 pints for canning.
- Jalapeños: There are approximately 10–12 jalapeños in 1 pound. This amount varies depending on the size of the jalapeño. One large jalapeño pepper (about $1\frac{1}{2}$ ounces) will yield about $\frac{1}{4}$ cup of diced pepper. (With each chunk of diced jalapeño pepper measuring about $\frac{1}{4}$ inch per side.)

Try preparing peppers using one of these methods:

Raw: For a low-calorie appetizer or snack, wash and cut peppers into strips or chunks. Eat them plain, with dips, or add them raw to salads and sandwiches.

Baking: Cleaned peppers can be sliced, cubed, or left whole and baked with seasonings, herbs, and other vegetables. Young, tender peppers cut in slices or halves take less time to cook. Larger, tougher peppers should be de-seeded before baking.

Roasting: Wash peppers and cut them into cubes, slices, or strips, then drizzle with olive oil, salt, and seasonings. Bake in an oven until browned to the desired level.

Steaming: Cleaned peppers can be cut into bite-sized pieces and placed in a steaming basket over 1 inch of water. Cover the basket, bring water to a boil, and steam. Smaller peppers can be steamed whole.

Sautéing or stir-frying: Slices or chunks can be sautéed in a little oil, water, or broth. Add peppers to a stir-fry with other vegetables. Stir and toss the vegetables while cooking.

Grilling: Peppers can be cut into strips or halves, then grilled, or cut into cubes and threaded on skewers for kebabs that are placed on the grill and cooked until tender. If you're using wooden skewers, soak them in water for 20–30 minutes before using them so they don't burn.

Are you looking for some exciting and different ways to use peppers? Here are some examples of how to incorporate peppers into other recipes and meals.

- Thinly slice or grate raw peppers and add them to lettuce, slaws, or pasta salads.
- Chopped, sliced, or diced peppers are an excellent option to add to stir-fry dishes.
- Add diced or sliced peppers to sauces, soups, chilis, or stews.
- Peppers can be added to meatloaf, meatballs, turkey burgers, or casserole recipes.
- There's nothing like a casserole or hearty pasta dish when you're in the mood for comfort food. Try adding pepper to these dishes!
- Try a shredded pepper pizza crust or pizza topping.
- For a nutrition boost, include peppers in a grain power bowl or other bowl recipes.
- Frittatas, quiche, egg bakes, omelets, and scrambled eggs are dishes that lend themselves to the addition of peppers. Make these dishes with peppers for a special breakfast or brunch.

- Give marinated peppers a try. Marinate thinly sliced peppers in pesto or any type of vinaigrette.
- Stuff halved peppers with a hearty meat mixture or other filling to make pepper boats. Hollowed-out peppers act as a vessel for many other ingredients, so get creative!
- Add peppers to bars, brownies, cakes, cookies, or muffins.

SPICES

Cooking with herbs and spices is one of the easiest ways to add great flavor to any dish. There are so many herbs and spices that pair perfectly with peppers.

Here are some of the best spices to pair with sweet peppers: cayenne pepper, cumin, black pepper, cloves, Cajun seasoning, fajita seasoning, and taco seasoning.

The heat of chile peppers is often offset by cooling herbs like mint and cilantro. The spices cumin and coriander can enhance the flavors while providing a contrast to the heat. Cooking with hot peppers is a journey of discovery and experimentation.

If you want to experiment with fresh herbs, basil, oregano, cilantro, thyme, parsley, and rosemary often taste great when added to dishes with peppers.

PRESERVE AT HOME

Looking to preserve your pepper crop? You can freeze, pickle, can, or dry your peppers.

The safest recipes and resources are those that have been researched and tested by the USDA and extension services associated with land-grant universities. Many sources on the internet or social media platforms are not tested for safety, so it is critical to use the resources below.

The University of Wyoming Extension recommends using canning recipes from the following approved food preservation sources.

Canning directions and recipes dated prior to 2014 should not be used. Mass media and blog recipes, unless from extension programs or other approved sources, should also not be used.

Canning

When canning or pickling peppers, it is important to carefully follow the recipe directions in order to ensure a safe product. Peppers are low in acid and, when preserved improperly, can cause botulism. Peppers must be processed in a pressure canner at 240°F.

When canning, you must know your altitude, since altitude affects processing times and pressures. Processing times in most recipes are based on elevations from sea level to 1,000 feet. Do not use normal processing times if you live at an altitude above 1,000 feet.

Water boils at lower temperatures as altitude increases due to decreased atmospheric pressure. These lower boiling temperatures are less effective for killing bacteria. You must increase either the processing time or canner pressure to make up for lower boiling temperatures. Use publications based on the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA)-approved guidelines to select the proper processing time and canner pressures for your altitude.

When canning foods at home, adjustments must be made to ensure the safe processing of home-canned foods.

- For foods processed in a boiling water canner, extra time must be added.
- For foods processed in a pressure canner, extra pressure must be added.

Detailed information on altitude adjustments for canning specific foods is available on the National Center for Home Food Preservation website at <http://nchfp.uga.edu/>.

Pickling

The proportion of vinegar to water is critical when pickling. Use only tested and approved pickling recipes with at least as much vinegar as water to properly acidify peppers.

All pickled products should be processed in a boiling water canner to ensure a product that will not spoil. Detailed information on altitude adjustments for canning specific foods is available on the National Center for Home Food Preservation website at <http://nchfp.uga.edu/>, or ask your county Extension office for time adjustments if you live above 1,000 feet.

Freezing

Peppers lose their crispness when frozen and thawed, but keep their flavor. Frozen peppers are good in cooked dishes where texture is not important.

Bell or sweet peppers: Select crisp, tender green or bright red pods. Wash, cut out stems, cut in half, and remove seeds. If desired, cut into ½-inch strips or rings.

For crisp texture, package raw, leaving no headspace. Seal and freeze.

For longest shelf-life, blanch peppers before freezing. Blanching is the scalding of vegetables in steam or boiling water to slow or stop the action of certain enzymes. Water-blanch halves for 3 minutes and strips or rings for 2 minutes. Cool promptly, drain, and package, leaving ½-inch of headspace. Seal and freeze.

Hot Peppers: Wash and stem peppers. Package leaving no headspace. Seal and freeze.

Drying

Peppers can easily be dried at home. The drying process also intensifies their flavor, so they pack a bigger punch than fresh peppers. Vegetables can be dried in a food dehydrator or an oven by using the right combination of warm temperatures, low humidity, and air currents. The optimum temperature for drying food is 140°F.

Because vegetables contain less acid than fruits, vegetables are dried until they are brittle. At this stage, only 10% of the initial moisture remains, so no microorganisms can grow.

Drying is not a precise method of food preservation, and the amount of drying time will vary depending on the equipment, moisture content of the vegetables, and humidity in the air.

Bell or sweet peppers: Wash, remove core and seeds. Cut into ¼-inch disks or slices. Spread on drying trays and dry in oven or dehydrator. Peppers will be tough to brittle when done. Store dried peppers in moisture/vapor-resistant packaging in a cool, dry, dark place. Peppers fade quickly when exposed to light.

Hot peppers: For whole peppers, wipe clean with a damp cloth. Spread a thin layer on trays or string together with a needle and cord. Dry until pods are shriveled, dark, red, and crisp. Remove seeds and stems before using. Peppers can also be dried in ¼- to ½-inch pieces. Dry until crisp.

Dried peppers should be stored in labeled glass jars or moisture-proof containers in a cool, dark, dry place. They will keep for a year. Containers should be filled as full as possible without crushing.

Rehydrate dried peppers for use in dishes like casseroles by soaking them in water. Or you may crumble or crush the dried peppers into a powder to use as a seasoning.

For drying instructions, visit the National Center for Home Food Preservation at nchfp.uga.edu.

NUTRITION

Bell peppers are high in vitamins A and C. They are also a good source of potassium, folic acid, fiber, and beta-carotene. Color does matter nutritionally in peppers; green peppers are picked before maturing and have a longer shelf life. Orange, yellow, and purple peppers are on the vine longer than green ones and have more nutritional value and a sweeter flavor. Red peppers are on the vine the longest and are highest in beta-carotene and vitamins A and C. They also have the sweetest flavor.

Peppers are low in calories, with a 3.5-ounce serving containing 31 calories, 1 gram of protein, 6 grams of carbs, 4.2 grams of sugar, 2.1 grams of fiber, and only .3 grams of fat.

Optional: food-safe gloves

3 serrano chiles, seeded and diced

.....
3 jalapeños, seeded and diced

.....
½ medium yellow onion, diced

.....
2 (1 cup) plum tomatoes, peeled and diced (use canned if tomatoes aren't in season)

4 cloves garlic, minced

.....
½ cup cilantro leaves, chopped

.....
2 tablespoons unsalted butter

.....
2 tablespoons flour

1 cup milk

.....
6 cups (24 ounces) Colby-Jack cheese, hand-shredded, or any other melting
cheese (see Note)

½ cup sour cream

.....
¼ teaspoon ground cumin

.....
Salt

- 1 Wash hands with soap and water for 20 seconds.
- 2 Wash and dry all produce. Wearing gloves, prepare the peppers as directed. Prepare the remaining produce as directed.
- 3 Melt the butter in a saucepan on medium-low heat, and then cook the onions and peppers for about 5 minutes or until the onions are translucent. Add the garlic and cook for another minute.
- 4 Whisk the flour into the butter and vegetable mix, then cook for 1–2 minutes.
- 5 Add milk to the pan and cook on medium heat, whisking constantly until sauce is thick, about 5 minutes. Stir in the cilantro and tomatoes.
- 6 Turn the heat down to low, and slowly add ¼ cup shredded cheese, stirring into the white sauce until completely melted. Repeat until all the cheese has been added. Stir in the sour cream and cumin, then add salt to taste.
- 7 Note: Pre-grated cheeses contain preservatives like potato starch and natamycin, meant to keep the shreds from clumping together in the bag. That means the cheese won't melt well when used for cooking. Your recipes will turn out less clumpy if you use freshly grated cheese, which does not contain those additives.

Cook time: 1 hour

Total time: 1 hour 30 minutes

Servings: 6

Optional: food-safe gloves

2 jalapeños, ribs and seeds removed, minced

½ onion, red or yellow, minced

2 tablespoons olive oil

4 cups water

1 teaspoon salt

1 pound boneless skinless chicken breasts or thighs

2 (14-ounce) cans white beans, cannellini or great northern, drained

Juice of 1 lime

- 3 In a soup pot over medium heat, sauté the onion and jalapeño with the olive oil until soft and fragrant.

- 5 Cover the pot and cook the chicken for 5–10 minutes. Remove from heat but leave the lid on so the chicken continues cooking for another 20 minutes. Remove the chicken breasts from pot and set aside to cool. See Notes.
- 6 Add the white beans and salsa to the pot. Simmer for 30 minutes over medium heat.
- 7 Shred the chicken and add it back to the pot.
- 8 Just before serving, squeeze the juice of one lime into the pot. Cut the remaining lime into wedges for serving.
- 9 Add the salt; taste and adjust as needed. Serve with fresh cilantro, sour cream, and shredded cheese.

Optional: This soup is also delicious served with white or brown rice in it, or as a side. It helps offset the spiciness.

Notes:

To remove any unwanted chicken fat in the broth after Step 4, use one of these procedures:

- Skimmer: skim the soup during the cooking process by scraping across the top to remove any chicken fat.
- Ice cube: glide an ice cube along the surface of the soup. Fat will stick to it and then you can dispose of the ice cube.
- Paper towel or napkin: gently lay a paper towel or napkin on top of the liquid. The fat particles will adhere to it, making it easy to lift away the excess grease.
- Fat separator: pour broth into a fat separator, wait for the fat to rise, then pour the lower fat-free liquid back into the pot.
- Chilling technique: if you're not in a rush, chilling the broth will cause the fat to solidify, making it easy to skim off.

CREAMY ROASTED POBLANO PEPPER CHICKEN SOUP

Prep time: 15 minutes

Cook time: 55 minutes

Total time: 1 hour 10 minutes

Servings: 6

Immersion blender

Plastic wrap or zipper baggie

3 poblano peppers

1 cup onions, diced

3 cloves garlic, minced

2 tablespoons unsalted butter

2½ cups chicken stock

8 ounces cream cheese, softened and cubed

Salt and pepper, to taste

2 cups cooked chicken, shredded

1¼ cups fresh or frozen corn kernels

1½ cups (6 ounces) Colby-Jack cheese, freshly grated (see Note)

- 1 Wash hands with soap and water for 20 seconds.
- 2 Wash and dry all produce. Prepare as directed.
- 3 Roast the poblano peppers using the gas stove top or the oven.
- 4 Gas stove top: turn the flame on the stovetop to high heat and place the poblano peppers on the grates. Using tongs, flip the peppers occasionally until the outside has charred on all sides.
- 5 Oven: preheat oven to 400°F. Place whole poblano peppers on a foil-lined baking sheet and roast for 35–40 minutes or until skins are blackened, flipping once.
- 6 Place the peppers in a zipper baggie or a bowl, sealed with plastic wrap, and let them steam. After about 15–30 minutes, peel the skin off using your hands or a paper towel. Remove stems and seeds. Chop the peppers into a small ½-inch dice.
- 7 In a medium saucepan, melt butter on medium heat. Once melted, add onion and garlic and cook for 3–5 minutes or until translucent. Next, add the chopped poblano peppers and cook for 3–5 minutes.
- 8 Add broth, cream cheese, salt, and pepper and stir until cream cheese has almost completely melted and combined.
- 9 Using an immersion blender, blend the liquid until smooth.
- 10 Add chicken and corn. Bring to a boil, then simmer for 10 minutes. Add cheese and stir until melted.

Note: Pre-grated cheeses contain preservatives like potato starch and natamycin, meant to keep the shreds from clumping together in the bag. That means the cheese won't melt well when used for cooking. Your recipes will turn out less clumpy if you use freshly grated cheese, which does not contain those additives.

Sour cream

Pepper Relish

1 ripe tomato, diced

4–6 mini sweet peppers, seeded and finely diced

2 scallions, including half of the greens, sliced thin

3 tablespoons fresh parsley, chopped

2 teaspoons fresh marjoram, chopped

Salt

Freshly ground pepper

Dash of vinegar

- 1 Wash hands with soap and water for 20 seconds.
- 2 Preheat the oven to 200°F.
- 3 Relish: Wash and dry all produce. Prepare as directed.
- 4 Combine the tomatoes, peppers, scallions, and herbs in a small bowl. Season with a few pinches of salt, a little pepper, and a dash of vinegar. Taste and adjust the seasonings, if needed.
- 5 Pancakes: Purée ½ cup of corn kernels in a blender with the buttermilk for about 1 minute. Add the oil, eggs, and salt. Blend until smooth, then transfer to a bowl and whisk in the dry ingredients, stirring until just blended. Fold in the remaining corn kernels. Wash hands with warm running water and soap after handling uncooked flour and/or raw eggs. Clean all surfaces and utensils touched by uncooked flour and/or raw eggs.
- 6 Melt a little butter in a nonstick skillet. When it bubbles, pour in the batter. ¼ cup batter yields a 5-inch pancake. Cook over medium-high heat until covered with holes, then turn and cook until the second side is set, about 1 minute. Hold cakes in the warm oven while cooking the rest of the batter.
- 7 Serve two or three pancakes per plate with a dollop of sour cream and a spoonful of the relish on each.

GARLIC JALAPEÑO CHEDDAR CHEESE BREAD

Prep time: 40 minutes

Rise time: 1 hour

Cook time: 35 minutes

Cool time: 30 minutes

Total time: 2 hours 45 minutes

Servings: 1 loaf

Plastic wrap

Optional: food-safe gloves

1–2 mid-sized jalapeños, seeded and thinly sliced or diced

1¼ cups water

3–3½ cups bread or all-purpose flour, (spoon and level to measure)

1 cup (4 ounces) cheddar cheese, shredded

2¼ teaspoons (1 packet) quick-rising dry yeast

1 tablespoon sugar

½ tablespoon garlic powder

3 tablespoons olive oil

1 tablespoon salt

- 1 Wash hands with soap and water for 20 seconds.
- 2 Wash and dry peppers. Wearing gloves, prepare the peppers as directed.
- 3 Add yeast and sugar to a large mixing bowl, then add warm (105–115°F) water. Let sit for approximately 5 minutes until the mixture foams, then add olive oil, garlic powder, and salt.
- 4 Mix in 3 cups of flour, one cup at a time. Either mix thoroughly by hand or use a stand mixer with a dough hook attachment. If the dough is not coming together and sticking to the bowl after adding all 3 cups of flour, try adding 1 tablespoon of flour at a time until it begins sticking.
- 5 First rise: oil a medium mixing bowl (cooking spray works well for this). Flour hands, form dough into a ball, then place it into the bowl. Cover with plastic wrap and let rise for 30 minutes. Wash hands with warm running water and soap after handling uncooked flour. Clean all surfaces and utensils touched by uncooked flour.
- 6 Kneading: combine jalapeños and cheese in a small bowl. Flour a flat surface. Take a handful of jalapeños and cheese at a time, then knead into the dough ball until toppings are well incorporated into the dough. Place toppings in the center of the dough, stretch the edge of the dough outward, then fold it back on top of the toppings and repeat.
- 7 Second rise: flour hands and form dough into a ball. Place dough back into an oiled bowl, cover with plastic wrap, and let rise for another 30 minutes.
- 8 Preheat oven to 400°F.
- 9 Flour hands, then gently form dough into a ball or oval. Transfer to a floured pan or baking stone, then slice the top of the loaf with a few slashes with a sharp knife or kitchen shears.
- 10 Bake for 35 minutes or until the crust is golden brown and the internal temperature is 210°F for crusty bread.
- 11 Remove bread from the oven. Transfer to a wire rack and cool for 30 minutes before slicing.

JALAPEÑO CHEDDAR AND CHIVE SCONE

Prep time: 10 minutes

Cook time: 20–23 minutes

Total time: 30–33 minutes

Servings: 10 scones

Optional: parchment paper, food-safe gloves

1½ scallions, white and green parts, cleaned, trimmed, and chopped

¼ cup peppers, any kind, chopped

¼ chives, chopped

2 cups unbleached all-purpose flour

½ teaspoon salt

1 tablespoon baking powder

6 tablespoons butter, cold, cut into pieces

1 cup (4 ounces) sharp cheddar cheese, grated or chopped

2 large eggs

⅓ cup sour cream or ricotta cheese

Optional: 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard, for flavor

- 1 Wash hands with soap and water for 20 seconds.
- 2 Wash and dry all produce. Wearing gloves, prepare the peppers as directed if using spicy peppers.
- 3 Preheat the oven to 375°F. Lightly grease a baking sheet or line it with parchment.
- 4 Whisk together the flour, salt, and baking powder. Work in the butter with your fingers to make an unevenly crumbly mixture.
- 5 Toss in the cheese, scallions, peppers, and chives.
- 6 In a bowl, mix together the eggs, sour cream or ricotta cheese, and the mustard, if using.
- 7 Add egg mixture to the dry ingredients, stirring until everything is evenly moistened; the dough will be sticky.
- 8 Liberally flour the counter and your hands. Pat the dough into a 10"x2" rectangle. For larger, flatter scones, pat into a 15"x3" rectangle.
- 9 Cut the rectangle into five squares. Cut each square in half diagonally, to make a total of ten triangular scones.
- 10 Place the scones on prepared baking sheet, leaving at least 1" between them. Wash hands with warm running water and soap after handling uncooked flour and/or raw eggs. Clean all surfaces and utensils touched by uncooked flour and/or raw eggs.
- 11 Bake the scones for 20–23 minutes until they're nicely browned and a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean or with a few crumbs. Remove them from the oven and serve warm or at room temperature.
- 12 Store, well-wrapped, in the refrigerator for several days. Freeze for longer storage.

CHILE RELLENO CASSEROLE

Prep time: 10 minutes

Cook time: 1 hour 10 minutes–1 hour 30 minutes

Total time: 1 hour 20 minutes–1 hour 40 minutes

Servings: 8

Zipper baggie or plastic wrap

Foil

Non-stick spray

6–8 large poblano peppers (see Notes)

2 cups (8 ounces) Monterey Jack cheese, shredded and divided

1 cup (4 ounces) cheddar cheese, shredded and divided

5 large eggs

1½ cups whole milk

3 tablespoons all-purpose flour

1 teaspoon baking powder

¼ teaspoon onion powder

¼ teaspoon garlic powder

¼ teaspoon salt

¼ teaspoon black pepper

Optional: Sour cream, salsa, and fresh chopped cilantro for serving

Notes: The number of peppers needed depends on their size. You want enough to completely cover the bottom of a baking dish twice.

Fresh roasted poblano peppers will give this casserole the best flavor, but if you're in a hurry, you can also replace them with 3–4 (7-ounce) cans of whole green chilies. Drain them completely, open them up, and scrape out the seeds. Proceed with the recipe.

- 1 Wash hands with soap and water for 20 seconds.
- 2 Preheat the oven's broiler on high and set the rack about 6 inches from the heat source. Line a baking sheet with foil.
- 3 Wash and dry peppers.
- 4 Place peppers on the baking sheet and roast for about 10–15 minutes, using tongs to turn them occasionally, roasting until the skins are blackened and charred.
- 5 Transfer the roasted peppers to a zipper baggie or a bowl sealed with plastic wrap for 15–30 minutes, allowing them to steam as they cool. Once they are cool enough to handle, peel off the skin using your hands or a paper towel, cut off the stems, open them up, and remove the seeds.
- 6 Preheat oven to 350°F. Lightly coat a 3-quart baking dish with nonstick spray.
- 7 Lay half the roasted chiles in the baking dish in a single layer. Sprinkle 1 cup of the Monterey Jack cheese and ½ cup of the cheddar on top. Repeat, adding another layer of chile and another layer of cheese on top.
- 8 In a medium bowl, whisk together the eggs, milk, flour, baking powder, onion powder, garlic powder, salt, and pepper until thoroughly combined and no lumps of flour remain. Pour the mixture evenly over the cheese and chiles. Wash hands with warm running water and soap after handling raw eggs. Clean all surfaces and utensils touched by raw eggs.
- 9 Place in the oven and bake for 45 minutes until eggs are set and golden around the edges and the casserole is puffed up in the center. The casserole's internal temperature should be 160°F on a food thermometer.
- 10 Let stand and cool for 5–10 minutes before cutting. Slice into squares and if desired, serve with a dollop of sour cream, a little salsa, and freshly chopped cilantro.

- 8 Add the ground beef and season with salt and pepper. Wash hands with warm running water and soap after handling raw meat. Clean all surfaces and utensils touched by raw meat.
- 9 Cook for 5–6 minutes, breaking up the meat with a spatula, until meat is cooked through.
- 10 Add the onion to the pan and cook for 3-4 minutes or until softened. Add the garlic and cook for 30 seconds.
- 11 Add the rice, tomato sauce, and Italian seasoning. Stir to combine. Stir in ½ cup cheese, salt, and pepper to taste.

PEPPER STEAK STIR FRY

Prep time: 10 minutes

Cook time: 20 minutes

Total time: 30 minutes

Servings: 4

1 red bell pepper, cored, seeded, and cut into strips

1 green bell pepper, cored, seeded, and cut into strips

2 teaspoons garlic, minced

1 teaspoon ginger, minced

1 tablespoon vegetable oil, divided

1¼ pounds flank steak, skirt steak, hanger steak, or sirloin tip steak

Salt and pepper, to taste

¼ cup soy sauce

1½ tablespoons sugar

¼ cup water

1½ tablespoons cornstarch

- 1 Wash hands with soap and water for 20 seconds.
- 2 Wash and dry all produce. Prepare as directed.
- 3 Look for the direction of the muscle fibers in the steak. The “grain” of a steak refers to the direction that the muscle fibers run. Thinly slice the meat across the grain. Slicing against the grain cuts those long muscle fibers into smaller pieces resulting in meat that’s tender and easy to chew. Wash hands with warm running water and soap after handling uncooked raw meat. Clean all surfaces and utensils touched by uncooked raw meat.
- 4 Heat 1 teaspoon vegetable oil over medium-high heat in a large pan.
- 5 Add the peppers and cook for 3–4 minutes or until tender. Remove the peppers from the pan and place on a plate.
- 6 Add the remaining 2 teaspoons of oil to the pan. Season the steak with salt and pepper to taste.
- 7 Increase heat to high. Add the steak to the pan and cook for 5–6 minutes or until lightly browned.
- 8 Add the garlic and ginger, then cook for 30 seconds.
- 9 Place the peppers back in the pan with the steak.
- 10 In a small bowl, whisk together the soy sauce, sugar, water, and cornstarch.
- 11 Pour the sauce over the steak mixture and bring to a simmer. Cook for 2–3 minutes or until sauce thickens, then serve.

JALAPEÑO POPPER CHICKEN

Non-stick spray

Toothpicks

1–2 jalapeño peppers, seeds and ribs removed, minced

½ cup panko breadcrumbs

2 teaspoons canola oil

1½–2 teaspoons taco seasoning (see Note)

1 large egg

2 ounces reduced-fat cream cheese, room temperature

¼ cup cheddar cheese, shredded

2 chicken breasts

- 1 Wash hands with soap and water for 20 seconds.
- 2 Preheat the oven to 375°F. Place an ovenproof rack onto a rimmed baking dish. Coat with non-stick spray.
- 3 Wash and dry jalapeños. Wearing gloves, prepare the peppers as directed.

- 5 In another shallow bowl or dish, lightly beat an egg. In a small bowl, combine the cream cheese, cheddar cheese, and jalapeños.
- 6 Using a small knife, cut a pocket into the side of each chicken breast, or horizontally slice the chicken through the center until it is almost butterflied. Season the chicken lightly with salt and pepper, and then divide the cream cheese mixture evenly between each chicken breast's pocket. Use toothpicks to secure, if necessary.
- 7 Dip the chicken pieces one at a time, first into the egg, and then into the panko mixture, making sure to completely coat the chicken.
- 8 Wash hands with warm running water and soap after handling uncooked raw meat and/or raw eggs. Clean all surfaces and utensils touched by uncooked raw meat and/or raw eggs.
- 9 Place the chicken on the prepared baking rack and cook for about 30–35 minutes, or until the chicken is cooked through. The chicken's internal temperature should be 165°F on a food thermometer.

- 3 Bring 8 cups of water to a boil in a large pot over high heat. Add the noodles and cook until al dente. Do not overcook!
- 4 Drain the noodles and set aside. Return the pot to the stove and set the heat to medium.
- 5 Add the chopped bacon and cook until the fat has rendered, about 6–8 minutes. Wash hands with warm running water and soap after handling raw meat. Clean all surfaces and utensils touched by raw meat.
- 6 Remove the cooked bacon with a slotted spoon and reserve the bacon grease in the pot.
- 7 Add the jalapeño and bell peppers to the pan. Sauté for 5 minutes, using a wooden spoon to scrape up any brown bits on the bottom of the pan. After 5 minutes, remove the jalapeño and bell peppers from the pan and set aside with the cooked noodles. Carefully wipe any excess fat from the pan.
- 8 Add butter to the pan and let it melt. Sprinkle the flour into the pan and whisk into the butter. Cook the roux mixture for 3 minutes, constantly whisking.
- 9 Slowly pour the chicken broth into the pan and continue to stir. Add the thyme, garlic powder, and smoked paprika to the pot. Allow the sauce to come to a boil over medium heat. Once it has come to a boil, pour the milk and half-and-half into the sauce; stir well.
- 10 Once the sauce mixture barely starts to boil, turn off the heat and stir in the shredded cheeses by the handful.
- 11 Return the cooked pasta, bacon, and sautéed peppers to the pot. Taste, and add salt and pepper as needed. Garnish with green onions, cayenne pepper, and breadcrumbs if desired.

Note: Pre-grated cheese contains preservatives like potato starch and natamycin, meant to keep the shreds from clumping together in the bag. That means the cheese won't melt well when used for cooking. Freshly grated cheese does not contain those additives, so your recipes will turn out less clumpy and much smoother.

Cook time: 30 minutes	1 cup butter, softened	Immersion blender or blender
Total time: 1 hour	2¼ cups sugar	Optional: food-safe gloves
Servings: 12	4 large eggs	1 large jalapeño, roughly chopped (with seeds and veins)
Non-stick spray	2¾ cups all-purpose flour (spoon and level to measure)	2 cups heavy cream
Parchment paper	2 teaspoons baking soda	½ cup powdered sugar
3 (8-inch) cake pans	½ teaspoon baking powder	20 ounces dark chocolate (62% cocoa), chopped into small pieces
2 cups boiling water	1 teaspoon kosher salt	Optional: sprinkles for decorating
1 cup dark cocoa powder, unsweetened

- 1 Wash hands with soap and water for 20 seconds.
- 2 Preheat the oven to 350°F. Prepare three 8-inch cake pans with non-stick spray and parchment paper rounds on the bottom.
- 3 Wash and dry all produce. Wearing gloves, prepare the peppers as directed.
- 4 In a medium bowl, combine the boiling water with the cocoa powder and the red cayenne pepper. Whisk until smooth and set aside to cool.
- 5 In the bowl of a standing mixer, cream together the butter and sugar until fluffy.
- 6 Add the eggs one at a time until they are mixed well.
- 7 In a separate bowl, combine all the dry ingredients; whisk to mix.
- 8 Add the cooled chocolate mixture to the batter. Then, add the dry ingredients to the batter and mix well until it is smooth. Wash hands with warm running water and soap after handling uncooked flour and/or raw eggs. Clean all surfaces and utensils touched by uncooked flour and/or raw eggs.
- 9 Divide the batter evenly between the three pans.
- 10 Bake for 25 minutes or until a toothpick inserted in the center comes out clean or with a few crumbs. Remove from the oven and let completely cool.
- 11 While the cakes are baking, make the frosting.

- 14 Set it aside to cool and thicken—this will take about 1 hour. You can speed this process up by placing it in the fridge.
- 15 When the cake is completely cooled, place one of the cake layers on a cake plate, use $\frac{1}{4}$ of the frosting, and spread it as a filling over the first layer. Repeat with a second layer and another $\frac{1}{4}$ of the frosting.
- 16 Add the last layer and then use the remaining frosting to frost the whole outside of the cake.
- 17 Use sprinkles to decorate if desired. Slice and serve.

Note: This is a heavy cake.
