

Have you found your SPARK? National 4-H is moving to a new model to support the work done in 4-H. As you see in the graphic, there are various levels to the model. All that we do in 4-H is a part of the developmental context of the program. Club meetings, community service, project work develops Belonging, Relationships, Engagement, and SPARKS!

From there, members begin to thrive and grow with the program. Components like record books help them to set goals and find a purpose with their projects. Working throughout the year on their projects, members have opportunities to grow, challenge, and discover themselves.

Next comes the Developmental Outcomes, short term results. In our 4-H community, we help members to develop connections, they grow as individuals with life skills such as personal responsibility. Leadership opportunities like club officer roles give members the ability to contribute to something larger.

At the top is the Long-Term Outcomes. We wish that all members stay involved in the program to reach the top filled with personal success, this comes in many different results. 4-H offers programming where youth can find their SPARK, what engages them and fuels their fire.

Regular Cross-stitch is a form of sewing and a popular form of counted-thread embroidery in which X-shaped stitches in a tiled like pattern are used.

01/22/22 - Cross stitch - Blackwork Technique - Like counted cross-stitch, blackwork can be worked over one or two threads of fabric.
