2024 LIVESTOCK JUDGING CAMP

June 17-19, 2024
Grace Werner Agricultural Pavilion,
Casper College campus

THE CAMP

The Casper College Livestock Judging Camp focuses on livestock evaluation, with special emphasis on the presentation of oral reasons. Example classes to be evaluated include: market and breeding sheep, swine, cattle, and goats. In addition, four learning divisions will be offered: novice, intermediate, advanced, and adult. Cost includes meals, lodging, T-shirt, judging manual, judging contest, and awards.

THE CONTEST

The final day of judging camp will be a mock judging contest where competitors can put their knowledge and skills to the ultimate test! The judging contest will be comprised of six placing classes and three sets of reasons.

INSTRUCTORS

Educators, industry leaders, and livestock judging team members from Casper College will be camp coordinators.

- Early bird registration fee: $250/student and $160/advisor.
Deadline: Friday, May 24, 2024.

4-H MEMBERS & VOLUNTEERS IN THE NEWS!

The Board and Staff of the Medicine Bow Clinic pose happily next to the sign made by Medicine Bow resident Timothy Heward.

Professor MacGonagal graced us with her presence for an evening of well mannered frivolity.

Life and Times met last month remembering 4-H

Linda Fleming
Staff Writer

The April Life and Times topic was Remember 4-H. It was held on April 24 at the LSRV Community Education Center. Special guest was Maeve Lally, the present Savery Savers 4-H Club president.

The evening began with a dinner prepared by the staff of the Community Education Center. Following the meal the attendees learned the Savery Savers is probably one of the very oldest continuous community 4-H clubs in the state of Wyoming, with documentation of club activities in newspapers in the 1930s. Across Battle Pass, the B.E.V.O 4-H Club is one of the oldest project clubs in the state. Both clubs have operated continuously for at least 100 years. The LSR Museum has a file of 4-H photos of camps and projects.

The attendees discussed their memories of projects: sewing aprons, making cookies and their first livestock projects. The group also discussed the camps, judging contests and fairs and the transportation to and from the events. Many of the leaders were remembered, including Sid Weber, Harry Russell and Irene Car. For many years the main fund raiser for the Savery Savers was the Barn Dance held at the Russell Barn east of Dixon. They also noted the various trips awarded to 4-H members and the scholarships available.

The next Life and Times on May 22 will be held at the LSR Museum. The community meal and programs will be at the museum at 5:30 p.m. through October. The Village Bus operates and brings attendees from Baggs to Savery. The topic of discussion has not been determined at press time.

The Life and Times is a popular program that is sponsored by the Little Snake River Community Education Center and the Little Snake River Museum. The program discussions are audio taped and are placed on file in the Snake River Museum's archives. All are invited to attend.

Maeve Lally, 2023-24 Savery Savers 4-H president, was a special guest for the evening.
