SAVE THE DATE FOR SUBLETTE COUNTY'S GREEN RIVER RANCHER'S WORKSHOP!

Sublette County Extension will be hosting our first annual Green River Rancher's Workshop on November 29th at the Extension Office! This will consist of a series of talks and presentations from UW staff focused on beef production in western Wyoming, including Extension Beef Specialist Shelby Rosasco, Ag. Economics Research Scientist Brian Lee, and Sublette County Extension Educator Dagan Montgomery. Topics are to include heifer development and reproductive tools for Wyoming, nutritional evaluation and planning, and beef market outlooks. A free lunch will be provided to all that RSVP. Contact the Extension office to RSVP with the number of people in your party attending.

OCTOBER 2023

WSGA SUCCESSION PLANNING

The Wyoming Stock Grower's Association will be hosting a Succession Planning series in NE Wyoming with featured speaker Wesley Tucker. Presentations will cover how to address family business roles, opening communication, and most importantly, how to plan for the transition between generations on the ranch or family business. Click the link to the left to be taken to the WSGA site for more info.

MONITORING NUTRIENT STATUS IN BEEF COWS

The nutrient status of a herd is a major indication of the overall performance and production you can expect. But what is the best way to see if your cattle are receiving adequate nutrition? Click the image to see two relatively simple techniques SDSU Extension recommends ranchers utilize when determining their herds nutrient status.

SUSTAINING WORKING LANDS OF THE UPPER GREENGREEN RIVER

The Western Landowners Alliance and the Sublette County Conservation District will be hosting a discussion of the importance of working lands in the Green River valley on Nov. 2nd, with producer and agency panels, resources available to landowners, upcoming changes and more.
